

RESUME BALKAN WAR IN ATTACK TONIGHT

HOSTILITIES ARE SCHEDULED TO BE RENEWED WITH FIGHT ON ADRIANOPLE BY THE ALLIES.

POWERS DESIRE PEACE

Are Still Working in Harmony to Bring About an End to The Struggle—Allies in No Hurry to Fight.

London, Feb. 3.—The Balkan war will begin again at seven o'clock this evening unless the last peace efforts of the powers should succeed or Turkey decided at the eleventh hour to surrender.

It has even been decided who shall fire the first shots as Turkey has stated that she will allow her adversaries to take the aggressive. The immediate object of the allies of the allies is the capture of Adrianople and Scutari.

Trouble in Albania.

For the present at any rate, the Bulgarian troops will try to hold the Turkish generals at Tchatalla. The Serbians must keep many troops in Albania where a rising against the invaders has been organized. It is declared that the Albanians with 80,000 rifles under the command of Austrian officers are taking the field, and it is rumored that they have fought a battle at Dibra, where the Serbians lost heavily.

The Albanians are said to be greatly irritated by the wholesale arrests of those suspected of being interested in the provisional government.

Powers Stand Firm.

While the possible renewal of the war may put a strain upon the cooperation of the European powers, they have thus far worked in harmony and the departure of Prince Hohenzollern-Schillingensfuerst from Vienna with an autograph letter from the Emperor Francis Joseph to King Nicholas of Russia gives additional hope that they will go so far as to allow newspaper correspondents to accompany the armies in the field. Mahmoud Sheket Pasha, the grand vizier, stated emphatically today that he would not allow any correspondents within twenty miles of the lines.

A Small Concession.

Bulgaria made a small concession today when she consented to the proposal of the powers that Turkey should be allowed to appoint a representative of the Caliph to reside at Adrianople after the decision of that city to the allies.

The finances of all the states concerned in the war are in a condition of demoralization, and Turkey will emerge from the conflict practically bankrupt.

No Hurry to Resume.

Belgrade, Feb. 3.—The Balkan allies do not appear in a particular hurry to resume the war against Turkey. Two of the Serbian delegates who arrived here from London today said that hostilities would not begin before tomorrow, indicating that there may be a considerable delay before the war is renewed in earnest. Europe they declared, desires peace.

The delegates did not intimate the possibility of concessions on the part of the allies, but suggested that Turkey might at the last moment accept the advice given her by the powers. They expect the opinion that the peace negotiations had failed because the conditions of the armistice were drafted by inexperienced military officers.

Await Outcome.

Constantinople, Feb. 3.—The outcome of the representations made by the British and German ministers at the Bulgarian capital was awaited here this morning with a good deal of anxiety. Although the armistice was scheduled to end at seven o'clock in the evening the Ottoman officials had not yet lost hope that a resumption of hostilities would be avoided.

The German communication to the government of King Ferdinand of Bulgaria was even more direct in its terms than that of Great Britain in urging a peaceful settlement. Germany declared that she considered the new Turkish proposals as adequate, while both Great Britain and Germany intimated that intractability on the part of the Balkan nations was not approved by the powers.

PENNY POSTAGE IS RECOMMENDED IN THE HITCHCOCK REPORT

Also Suggest Radical Changes in Present Parcel Post Regulations.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—Postmaster General Hitchcock's annual report, made public today, suggests many means of improving the parcel post system. It also suggests an increase in rates on second class mail which may pave the way to a cent letter postage.

The parcel post section suggests the reduction of some of the rates and an increase in the limit on weight beyond eleven pounds. It also recommends the consolidation of the third and fourth classes so books and papers may be forwarded by parcel post.

The report urges civil pensions for postal employees, and points out that during the present administration the expense of operating the postal service has been cut down $45,000,000.

Suggests Lower Parcel Rates.

In regard to the parcel post, the report says: "While the postage rates for the new parcel post system range considerably lower than corresponding express charges, it is believed that experience will show them to be higher in some instances than is necessary in order to maintain the service at cost.

"Likewise, the restriction that places an eleven pound limit on the weight of parcels mailed should be regarded as merely tentative. After the system is thoroughly organized on that basis the scope of the service in its usefulness to the public should be still further enlarged by increasing the weight limit. If properly developed under efficient management, the parcel post will prove to be a most important factor in reducing the cost of living."

Provision for Printed Matter.

Perhaps the most important recommendation contained in the report is that the third and fourth classes of mail be consolidated so that books and other printed matter may be forwarded by a parcel post. At present the postage charges for these two classes of mail bear no fixed ratio to each other. For certain weights and zones the parcel post rates are lower than the third class rates, while in other cases they are higher.

"This condition," it is pointed out in the report, "is likely to result in much confusion and should not exist. Packages containing books or catalogues do not differ in any essential particular from other parcels and they should be handled by parcel post. Prior to the enactment of the parcel post law the department urged that these two classes of mail be consolidated, and the recommendation of such action is now renewed."

Second Class Matter Rates.

The report directs attention to the approval of the commission, headed by Associate Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme court, of the postoffice department's recommendation that the postage rate on second class mail be increased from 1 cent to 2 cents, a pound. In the opinion of the postmaster general favorable action by congress on the report of the commission would be a step towards the proper adjustment of postal charges.

"There is a widespread popular interest," the report says, "in the plan to lower the postage charge on letters from 2 cents to 1 cent an ounce. The proposed increase in the second class rate would pave the way for this change, making it possible to reduce the first class rate without departing from the present policy of a self-supporting postal service."

Avoid Deficit in 1911.

In course of a statement on the condition of postal finances, Mr. Hitchcock says: "In 1911, for the first time since 1883 postal receipts exceeded expenditures leaving a surplus instead of a deficit. A heavy loss of revenue in 1912, due to the extraordinary amount of franked matter mailed in the political campaign, created a temporary deficit, but since the close of the fiscal year the income of the department again has outstripped expenses."

During the fiscal year 1913 more than 300,000,000 pieces of mail, having an aggregate weight of about 61,000,000 pounds, were carried free through the mails under the frank of congressmen and of various government establishments. Had postage at the ordinary rates been paid on this matter the revenues of the department would have been increased by more than $20,000,000.

VETERAN LOBBYISTS WITH WATCHFUL EYE

Back to Madison to Protect Their Interests Against Adverse Legislation.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—Some familiar figures are back again among the legislative lobbyists this winter. To gain the ear of the Badger solons around the legislative halls, these paid workers, or, if like Mrs. Nora Jeanson of Oshkosh, they simply represent "Myself," are obliged to register with the secretary of state, quoting the various bills on which they propose to direct their activities, and give other statistics demanded by law.

One of the veteran lobbyists back on the job is James T. Drought, a Milwaukee attorney. He is caring for various Cream City and state automobile interests. Mrs. Jeanson is interested in the passage of a bill to revitalize the state fair management, principally by changing the method of appointment to the state board.

John L. Callahan, Harry Dempsey, Otto F. Hoppe, Thomas J. Kelly, Louis F. Krueger, Patrick McGusk, Andrew Pfennig, Jr., Ludwig Remhardt, and Frank Wendt of Milwaukee are registered to work in connection with bill No. 409, which seeks to compel employers to pay their employees at the end of every week. Paymasters and other railroad officials are registered to lobby against this and other bills affecting railroads.

RIVER SEINE RISES; PARIS FEARS FLOOD

Repetition of Serious Inundation of Two Years Ago Threatened at French Metropolis.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, Feb. 3.—Fears of a repetition of the disastrous inundations which occurred in Paris during the winter of 1910 to 1911 have been aroused during the past forty-eight hours by the rapid rise of the River Seine. The level of the water today is mounting about two inches an hour.

In the low-lying quarters of the city, especially in the southwestern district of Bercy, the water has already overflowed into the streets. The Rue Watt near the Tolbiac Bridge was the first to be flooded. It is now under water to a depth of several inches and consternation reigns among the occupants of adjacent houses. Rain ceased this morning in Paris itself, but it continues to fall heavily in the up country regions.

St. Paul, Feb. 3.—Plans are being completed today for the monster banquet to be given tonight in honor of Senator Knute Nelson's seventieth birthday. Senator Nelson arrived here today from Washington. He was expected to deliver an address before a joint session of the Minnesota legislature this afternoon. He will leave for Washington on a midnight train tonight.

GOVERNMENT LOSES ITS SUIT AGAINST THE SHOE MACHINERY CO.

First Defeat in Recent Anti-trust Campaign Suffered by Federal Authorities in Decision Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 3.—The suit of the Shoe Machinery Corporation was decided against the government by the United States supreme court. The action of the supreme court today grew out of the Massachusetts federal court's annulling one of two indictments brought against the Shoe Machinery company officials.

The Massachusetts court took the position that the indictment did not state an offense under the Sherman law. The government appealed to the supreme court by virtue of the criminal appeals act of 1907 on the ground that it did not state an offense. The government today suffered its first big defeat in the recent anti-trust campaign when the supreme court held that the officials of the United States Shoe Machinery company had not violated the Sherman anti-trust law by organizing that company. The court, however, did not pass upon the legality of the system by which the company leases machines on terms that no "independent machinery be used."

MOTHER AND BABIES DYING FROM HUNGER

Pitiable Condition of Want Discovered in Small Minnesota Town.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 3.—Half-crazed from hunger and cold Mary Zygowski, and two small children were found by Police Chief Finnigan yesterday in a pitiable condition in rooms almost bare of furniture, without fuel and with a cupful of flour as their only provisions. The rooms were over an undertaking establishment on the principal street of the city.

Without food or fire for five days their only means of protecting themselves from the cold was to remain in bed, wrapping themselves in scanty bed clothing.

Only business matters connected with the building caused the discovery of the three starving ones, whom the physician now attending claims would have been dead in another day.

PITTSBURGH STRIKE SEES BREAK TODAY

Two Hundred Men Return to Work While Sheriff Takes Additional Precautions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 3.—The first break in the ranks of the striking iron workers at the Rankin plant of the American Steel and Wire Company occurred this morning when about 200 of the 1,500 or more men returned to their places. The mills were picketed, but the presence of 22 deputy sheriffs prevented disorder. The unexpected action of the men prompted Sheriff Judd Bruff to take extraordinary precautions.

As the day advanced other men joined the workers in the mill, including some of the pickets who, when they realized their arguments had no effect on their fellows, applied at the mill office for their old jobs. Work was resumed also at the Braddock plant where it was estimated at 10 o'clock fully 500 of the strikers had taken up their work.

Governor Wilson Anxious That New Jersey Shall Be Next To Ratify Income Tax Amendment.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Trenton, Feb. 3.—When Governor Wilson heard that the New Mexico legislature planned to wrest from New Jersey the honor of being the thirty-sixth state to ratify the income tax amendment to the national constitution he expressed regret that his state had not acted sooner.

The Jersey house recently passed the measure and sentiment in the senate is reported favorable to it. The governor would have liked to see the senate in session before eight o'clock tonight, the hour at which it adjourned by resolution on Friday.

"I'm afraid there's no legal way to it," however, he said. The governor intends, however, to communicate with senate leaders to insure prompt action at tonight's meeting.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 3.—Under a suspension of the rules both houses of Wyoming legislature this morning passed the joint resolution ratifying the income tax amendment to the constitution, passed unanimously by the senate.

London, Feb. 3.—The suffragettes are planning "for civil war" in London, according to an announcement by Mrs. Pankhurst today.

"The militant suffragettes," said Mrs. Pankhurst, "are preparing all sorts of effective strokes. The government must quickly give us the vote or go. The women will use every method constitutional, as well as unconstitutional, to turn the cabinet out."

Detectives in great numbers are on watch in all the London streets, but the suffragettes continue their successful raids. The contents of thirty letter boxes were destroyed today, but the perpetrators of the outrage escaped without detection.

Four male passengers were killed and many of the women were carried off by the rebels. A relief train took the wounded to Amecameca.

The train was halted by the derailment of the engine in a cut. The rebels then began firing on the train from all sides of the cut at a distance of less than two yards, concentrating their fire on the troop's car. Twelve soldiers, including Lieutenant Ortiz, were killed. The lieutenant's wife was wounded.

SELL PROPERTY TO REORGANIZATION CO.

Allis-Chalmers Co. Property in West Allis Disposed of Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Feb. 3.—The Milwaukee and West Allis property of the Allis-Chalmers company were sold today by Special Master Commissioner Gurly W. Hazelton of Milwaukee to J. H. McClement of New York, chairman of the reorganization committee and representing the buyers committee, for $2,500,000.

Mr. McClement's bid was the only one made and was accepted. The sale was held for the purpose of obtaining money with which to pay interest on the outstanding first mortgage bond in the receivership. The outstanding bonds are held by the Continental Commercial Trusts and Savings Bank of Chicago, the interest amounting to $815,042.

Attorneys for Nathan Elsmann of Boston, who fought against the receivership, served notice on the special master that if the motion by Elsmann set to set aside the receivership which was denied by the United States district judge, Gieger, be reversed by the United States court of appeals the sale would not be effective. To this the special master assented.

Otto H. Kalk and Daniel W. Call have been acting in the capacity of receiver since May 28, last.

CONGRESS READY TO PASS INCOME TAXES

NATIONAL LAW WILL BE DRAFTED IN ACCORDANCE WITH VOTE OF VARIOUS STATES.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS

Many Committees Ready to Report—Taft Declines All Engagements Owing to Business.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 3.—An income tax is now one of the provisions of the constitution of the United States. Wyoming's ratification today of the income tax amendment—the sixteenth change in the constitution and the first since the reconstruction, completed a list of 36 states three-fourths of the union which have approved the provision.

Congress now will enact a law to levy the tax and it probably will become effective during the extraordinary session to be called by President elect Wilson in March. The tax itself, its provisions and its limitations are all left to congress.

The new law probably would supercede the corporation tax and provide for a tax on all incomes above $5,000, although there has been some sentiment in favor of making the limit as low as $1,000. Congressional leaders who have been preparing for the final ratifications by the states, estimate an income tax would bring in about one hundred million dollars a year to the government.

Attorney General Wickersham is scored for his action in holding up the Texas indictments against John D. Archbold and other Standard Oil officials and secretary Fisher is again charged with "subserviency to the oil trust" in a brief filed today with the house Indian affairs committee by attorneys for the Uncle Sam Oil Company in the Osage lands controversy.

A resolution calling on Attorney General Wickersham to submit to the house a statement concerning his action on the Texas indictments was introduced later by Rep. Garner.

The government will prosecute officials of the United Shoe Machinery Company under the one remaining indictment, it was announced at the department of justice today.

The indictment charges monopoly and unfair competitive methods and is declared to be the most important and strongest of the indictments.

President Taft cancelled all his engagements today and remained in his study in the White House preparing drafts of two special messages to be sent to congress this month.

The first will deal with the proposed budget system and with the second the present president will transmit the report of the Alaskan railways commission.

President Taft today signed the congressional resolution appropriating $25,000 for the expenses of Governor Wilson's inauguration.

Another attempt to change the proposed six year single term amendment to the constitution so it will either lengthen President Wilson's term to six years or make him eligible for reelection is expected in the house as soon as the resolution passed Saturday by the senate is taken up for consideration.

Passage of the single term resolution in the house is expected, but many democrats who favor it insist that it should not be so drawn to cut President Wilson off with a single four year term.

Repairing High Monument.

A well-known London steeplejack named Larkins has been engaged to repair the monument to the first Duke of Sutherland, on the top of Ben Vraggie (Sutherlandshire), 1,300 feet above the sea. The statue is 33 feet high and is on a column of solid masonry 50 feet high. It takes the men two hours to climb to work, and they have to "down tools" before dusk to allow of a descent in daylight.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HAS GREAT POSSIBILITIES

MOST POWERFUL AGENCY FOR EVANGELIZATION POSSESSED BY THE CHURCH.

NEEDS DEVELOPMENT

The Rev. McElfresh Delivered Able Address at Sunday School Mass Meeting Last Evening.

"That education is the greatest need of the Protestant church and that the Sabbath school is its supreme agency for evangelization, providing a common ground for the work of a united protestantism were among the significant statements made by the Rev. Dr. McElfresh of Chicago who addressed the Sunday school mass meeting at the Carroll Methodist church last evening. The Rev. Dr. McElfresh was heard by an audience that filled nearly every new in the church and impressed his listeners as being thoroughly well versed in contemporary religious conditions and the subject of religious education.

"Have you ever paused to consider," said the Rev. McElfresh, "the condition of the Roman Catholic church in this country? Do you know of any place where it is losing its hold, where it is going backward? On the contrary it is gaining in strength, building new and magnificent houses of worship, and occupying new territory.

"What accounts for the progress of this church? It is its response to the needs and demands of the present. Its superiority to other churches in solving the problems of the human soul and in social service? I would not say that these were the reasons. The strength of the Roman Catholic church lies in its thorough and persistent system of religious education. It is powerful because it educates its childhood and makes great sacrifices to do it.

"But there is another denomination that is rapidly and steadily growing in numbers and strength—the Mormon church. The province of Alberta in Canada is in danger of coming under their denomination. In the city of Calgary the protestant churches are strong, they co-operate, and they are aggressive in their missionary methods, but despite their efforts the Mormon church grows. Would you know the key to the problem? It is the same behind which the religious education of the children. Not long since attended the mid-week meeting of the Mormon church in that city. This meeting was held for the purpose of preparing for the next Sunday school service. Every Sunday school officer was there and it was a real business-like, enthusiastic, purposeful meeting. It is this spirit that is giving that denomination a foothold and strongholds throughout our country from Mexico to Canada.

Never were expenditures for education more lavish than they are now. Our state universities are the creation of a generation; our high schools' lineage is no longer; and our common school system is being revolutionized under our very eyes. All the doing excellent work as are also the older established denominational colleges. But we are confronted with this fact—that the greater part of education is no longer religious. The logic in the education of our forefathers has been reversed and I dare say there is one law in the state of Illinois which is not broken. If you have not guessed already you will be curious to know what law Chicago people have not broken. It is the law prohibiting the reading of the Bible in the public schools.

"I do not doubt that the majority of the teachers in our state universities, our high schools and common schools are men and women of high character, that they are upholders of truth and justice, but as far as concerns religious education their hands are tied. Jews, rationalists, Roman Catholics, men of diverse and conflicting faiths and no faith pay taxes for the support of these institutions and will not permit that to be taught what they do not believe. The universities may teach philosophy from Plato to Bergson and literature from Homer to Bernard Shaw, but it cannot teach the Bible. I am confident that the time will come when that book will not be excluded from our institutions of learning as it is at present.

"Remember that the education of the future is to be vocational. This fact is dinned into our ears and minds from the platform and in the columns of the press. Educators are massed into rival camps, the adherents of education for discipline and the supporters of education for efficiency. The spiritual side of education is not so much as given a suggestion.

"There is a vital lesson for us in the denial of the new movement in education. We must demand that religion shall be taught by those who have actual experience and first hand knowledge; that our Sunday school teachers be men and women who know their message and how to impart it.

"The problems of protestant religious education must be met and solved by volunteers. Its call is to laymen. It is the work for a united protestantism. Its task is not to make Methodists or Presbyterians or Baptists, but to make Christians. Its work must begin with a careful and thorough survey and end with winning, holding and guiding all protestant childhood. The Sunday school and church must direct their energies to the rehabilitation of the country church and to the improvement of country life. Unless the church meets those crying needs other agencies will and the church will be the weaker.

The Sabbath school is the supreme evangelistic agency of the church. The old-time revival meeting, has lost its power to win and hold. The Sabbath school can be made far more efficient, its possibilities are boundless and susceptible of almost infinite development. Its call to service is one to be heeded by every earnest Christian."

It's one of the rules of the club I belong to that none of its members shall marry a man who won't shave every morning?" "Oh, that's all right," replied Ben; "but what about the mornings I don't get home in time? I belong to a club, too."—Lippincott's Magazine.

"DIVORCE QUESTION" RETURN ENGAGEMENT

Strong Moral Tragedy on Vital Problem of the Day Seen by Two Large Audiences at Myers Theatre.

Two fair sized audiences were stirred by the moral lesson so graphically presented by the capable cast in Anthony McGuire's drama, "The Divorce Question," at the Myers Theatre Saturday afternoon and evening. The production was seen here earlier in the season and those who saw it then were unqualified in their praise. The same cast appeared on Saturday as in the first engagement and the members played their parts with the same natural ease and keen appreciation of their lines.

The work of Douglas Lawrence as "Tony" was a wonderful piece of acting and was accorded the appropriate applause of the audience. The acting of Willis Hall as Father Gerome was dignified and impressive and other members of the cast were equally good.

"NOBODY'S CLAIM." The attraction at the Myers theatre last evening was "Nobody's Claim," a comedy drama, which was well received by a fair sized house. Herbert O'Connor and Edna Clegg had the main roles and were supported by a fair cast.

LINK AND PIN

A striking example of the quick rise of a capable railroad employee is shown by the recent appointment of J. E. Osmer of Boone, Iowa, to the position of superintendent of the motor power cars and steamship lines of the American Arbor Railroad company. Mr. Osmer has been master mechanic of the West Iowa division at Boone, Iowa for about two years, having risen to that position in the brief period of about five years. Mr. Osmer is well known among the Northwestern men and is one of the most popular men on the road.

Acetylene headlights are being applied to all the Northwestern engines. Engineers were given proper instructions as to the care of these lights.

Dr. E. J. Zeigler has been appointed local surgeon at Oxford, Wis.

J. B. Scanlan of Wisconsin and Galena divisions is to take the place of E. L. Burch.

Chicago & Northwestern.

Engineer Fisher is in the place of Garbutt.

Engineer Coen is replacing Erdman on 54 and 55.

Engineer Cole is relieving Engineer Sterrel on the seven p. m. switch engine.

The Beloit switch engine was here yesterday and returned to Beloit this morning.

C. M. & St. Paul.

In one of the railroad journals there is an account of an engineer who ran into a flock of wild turkeys. There were about forty turkeys in the flock and the intake of the engine and turkeys resulted in the death of three turkeys and capture of one, which got caught on the pilot.

W. J. Adams, division 493, on the Great Northern, goes the above story one better when he wrote of a deer which had the habit of watching the electric headlight and then would disappear as the train got within a dangerous distance. On this special occasion he miscalculated the distance and the engineer shoved on a little more speed and the deer never had another chance to watch the head light. When Mr. Adams reached the next station he found the deer on the pilot. If this keeps up the state government will undoubtedly charge a license for hunting among the engineers who's run is through a game infested region.

GROOM SAYS HE'LL SHOW GOOD FORM

Bob Groom.

Notwithstanding the fact that Bob Groom of the Washington team was one of the leading pitchers in the American league last year, making the best record since he joined the Senators five years before, he believes that the coming season will show marked improvement in his work, and has written Manager Griffith to that effect.

Griffith is pleased with Groom's optimism. "If he is as well and strong," says Griffith, "Groom will be one of the best pitchers the game has ever developed. He showed a whole lot last year, and I look for him to be even better now that he has had a taste of a winning season."

Thieving Chinese Coolies. Among Chinese coolies a favored method of stealing rice is to lean up against a pile of sacks and stick a tin tube through the sack, the rice, which is dry, flowing naturally through the tube into the coolie's clothing. Flour is also stolen in this manner, and a common punishment in this case is to let the thief obtain a large quantity and then pour water into his clothing, which makes matters rather uncomfortable for the culprit.

CARDINALS BEATEN BY DECISIVE SCORE

Crack Players From Madison Pile Up
28 to 14 Score on Local Team in Saturday's Game.

The Janesville Cardinals were defeated Saturday night on the local floor by the Wisconsin Reserves, the score being 28 to 14. The Cardinals had their best lineup in the field, but for some reason they were not able to play their usual brilliant game. The Reserves played one of the best games ever seen at Janesville and with their fine passing and team work completely outclassed the local team. Their team work was flawless, for their short passing and interference proved the undoing of the Cardinals. The varsity players were composed of three of last year's Madison high school team which won the championship of the state. In Kesselick, the right guard for the Reserves, the Janesville fans saw one of the best players that has ever played against the locals. Besides getting three baskets which were all made in a spectacular manner, his dribbling and breaking up of Janesville's offense showed that he will make a good showing for the varsity first team next year. Lewis and Davies, the other two former high school players, also played star games. Lewis making a seemingly impossible side shot besides being an accurate passer. The entire Madison bunch were wonders at the game and undoubtedly will defeat any team in the state outside of the Wisconsin first team. In spite of the Cardinals' strengthened team they played loose ball and never had a show to win the game. Jones and Langdon starred for the local team but were not able to score with their usual regularity, because of the close guarding of their opponents. Fick, one of Beloit's college athletes, was substituted for Jones at center but failed to score. Fick is the pitcher that the Cubs took notice of and signed him up last year. He did not have a chance to show his worth with the Cubs but was "farmed" out with the St. Paul team and then to the Louisville, Ky. team. He played guard on the Beloits last year and proved one of their best men. Fick may be a star at football and baseball but has a few things to learn about basketball outside of his roughing ability. The Cardinals lost because they were up against one of the best teams in the Northwest.

The first half was fast and Janesville made a creditable showing, being only a basket behind their rivals at the end. The second half proved a walk-away for the students and the spectators were kept busy in watching the Reserves in their short pass team work.

"All the world's a stage" says Shakespeare. Thus did the myriad minded poet-philosopher convey the thought that all mankind are only "players," and it is exactly this idea which is illustrated by Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival which comes to the Myers Wednesday and Thursday on March 26 and 27, matinee Thursday. There is, however, this difference. Shakespeare regarded his lines as a mere figure of speech—as a figurative way of describing the insincerity of human nature. Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival makes the whole world its "stage" in a most literal sense. Shakespeare's lines are symbolic—Mr. Howe's pictures are pictures of actualities. Shakespeare's words convey flights of fancy. Howe's reproductions record facts. Mr. Howe's "stage" is not made up of "portable" scenery. His scenery is a transcription of nature—the very counterpart of nature. Unlike an ordinary dramatic spectacle, he does not need to tax the credulity or imagination of spectators by expecting them to regard trains built of boards and trees or palaces made from canvas, etc., as real. On the contrary, when, from a comfortable theatre seat, you encompass the whole work-a-day world-stage with Howe and witness its wonderful wealth of tone, form and color, and its human activities momentous and frivolous, you are not looking at a world of sham, pretense and artifice such as Shakespeare had in mind, but a real world pulsating with realities.

What meat?

American baseball fans will be greatly interested to know the opinion of La Opinion, a Havana newspaper, as to the playing ability of Eddie Collins, of the Philadelphia Athletics. Here it is:

Eddie Collins, su nombre es autoridad suprema beisbolera en la vision que ocupa su territorio es inexpugnable y no hay ladrón, por astuto que sea, que robe en su penamarcacion sin ver victima de su audacia.

Fans, what do you think of that criticism?

To the surprise of many, English sporting authorities are commenting sympathetically on the case of Jim Thorpe. There has been no taunting of America over the discovery, but rather has there been praise for the sporting authorities who would not attempt to cover up Thorpe's professionalism.

Owners of big league baseball clubs are likely to make less money this year than they did last. At least they will unless the sport is patronized more liberally than ever. More money will be paid out in salaries in 1913 than in any previous year. The Boston Red Sox, it is said, are hardest hit.

President Frank Farrell of the New York Yankees has just congratulated himself on the fact that he kept Branch Rickey on the reserve list ever since 1909, even though Rickey's days as a big leaguer appeared to be over. CLABBY-BROWN BOUT COMES OFF TONIGHT

Local Fight Fans Are Interested in Boxing Match in Milwaukee—
Many Will Attend.

Local fight fans are interested in the boxing match scheduled in Milwaukee tonight between Jimmy Clabby and Knockout Brown. A large number who were planning to attend left on the afternoon train.

Clabby finished his training for the Greek champion on Saturday and will rest up for the scrap which will be run off at the Hippodrome. Clabby is of opinion that he will have but little difficulty in outpointing the Chicago middleweight. His previous meeting with the K. O. terror found him a little bit off color and greatly underestimating his opponent. This time it will be different and the Greek will probably think he has run into a glove shaver.

As to the other bouts on the card the interest outside of the main event centers on the mill between Matty McCue of Racine and Freddie Andrews of Milwaukee. Both boys are featherweights and of almost the same class and school of boxing. McCue has been coming forward with big strides of late and if he shows well tonight, he will probably be accorded a wind-up against some big gun in the near future.

In one of the prelims, Dauber Yeager the Pou du Lac middleweight, will mingle with Eddie Clabby, brother of Jimmy. Eddie, who traversed the antipodes with his brother and had several bouts on his long jaunts reported to be a real knockerout and is certain to show some of his reputed form tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Battling Nelson, who were married in Chicago a few days ago, say that "13" and "23" are the luckiest possible numbers for them. The day before they were married they blew into Chicago on track number 23 of the Rock Island at 8:13 in the morning. They were married on January 23, at 23 minutes after 12, and their wedding dinner was given at 4:13. The bride is 23 years of age. The groom, who was once lightweight champion of the world, is 29.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT.
The notion seems to prevail, to some extent, that if the recall movement succeeds, Janesville will return to the old form of city government, and some men may support the measure because of this mistaken notion.

The law which provided for the commission plan of government very wisely safeguarded it by extending the time limit to six years, and no city under commission rule can abandon it before the time limit has expired.

The change from the old plan to the new, is a radical change, and people opposed to it would find no trouble in criticising a commission, however strong it might be. The law anticipated these conditions, and so provided for them.

The recall was deemed sufficient as a regulator, and from present appearances it seems to be ample for all kinds of emergencies. The city of Sioux City, Iowa, has indulged in seven recalls, during the past twelve months, and is now circulating petitions for the eighth—a continuous vaudeville performance.

The Wisconsin law is equally inviting, and there is no particular reason why the Badger cities can not adopt the recall for a steady diet, if so disposed. It gives disappointed and aspiring patriots an opportunity to air their grievances.

It will not be surprising if the coming special election is preceded by a primary, as talk of that kind is already in the air, and there is no lack of men who aspire to serve the city.

If there was any legitimate demand for the recall the situation would be different, and a list of good men for candidates would be needed, but the issue forced upon the city is not a personal issue. It is broader, than that for the city government is as-sailed for enforcing the law.

The mayor and two commissioners are made the target for the attack, but back of them is the great principle of law enforcement. This principle, and not the commission, is the bone of contention, and a moral obligation rests upon the people to stand by their representatives in their efforts to preserve the city from lawlessness.

The commission plan of government is not at fault. It has come to stay. The time will come when a disposition to enforce the law will be considered commendable, rather than occasion for censure and a recall.

The good name and welfare of the city is at stake, and not the three men in office. This is the one and only issue.

The committee of twelve, representing the recallers, has selected three men, and announced them as candidates, for reasons which the people thoroughly understand. The contest to be waged between the two forces is a contest of principle, of vastly more importance than the individual.

If recent regulation and law enforcement is to be maintained, every voter who does not believe in a wide open town, must realize the importance of presenting a solid front in defense of the great principle involved.

QUEER USE OF THE RECALL.

A virtue that has been alleged for the principle of the recall is that it permits bad men to be removed from office before their terms expire. It is rather interesting, therefore, to note that the recall proceedings now under way at Janesville have for their object the removal of good men from office before their terms expire. That is to say, according to popular understanding of the matter the effort to throw Janesville's present city commissioners out of office is being attempted because those commissioners have been too efficient to suit some people in enforcing the laws against vice and general wrongdoing in Janesville. A certain element in the city that is offended at this and prefers previous wide-open conditions, is endeavoring by recourse to the recall, to get rid of the unwelcome law-enforcers. The result of this contest will be a good one to bring out the kind of stuff that Janesville is made of. The fight ought to be a decisive one.—Appleton Post.

Janesville folks want to recall a city official who insisted on doing his best to enforce the laws. He ought to have known better. Recalling him is insufficient punishment. Boil him in tar.—Eau Claire Leader.

Take away your open winter. One day it is too hot for cutting ice and the next day it is so cold that few men want to try it.

English merchants would like to find a substitute for window glass that can not be broken by the militant suffragists.

So the presidential term is to be fixed at six years, if the lower house of congress accepts the senate's amendment.

The ground-hog saw his shadow and so we may expect cold weather for the next six weeks anyway.

The cold weather of last week was some consolation in that it enabled the ice harvest to begin.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

ANOTHER VOICE FROM THE INSIDE.

The whole country has heard of the recent remark of a former president of the New York Stock Exchange practically admitting that morals have nothing to do with Wall street.

That was illuminating.

Now comes another incident throwing more light on the dark places.

John H. Reynolds, Jr., recently relinquished his seat in the exchange, and the reason he gave his friends was that he became disgusted with the practices pursued there.

Mr. Reynolds is only twenty-five years old, belongs to one of the best families in New York state, was a member of the important firm of Edgingham Lawrence, and all his friends thought he had a bright future in the world of high finance.

But it appears that Mr. Reynolds also has a conscience. He is reported to have said that he grew "tired of seeing an unsuspecting public robbed by unscrupulous men of wealth traveling under the guise of respectability."

Therefore he gave up his bright prospects and it is said will start all over again in the electrical business.

If this young man had gone on he would doubtless have achieved what many men call success.

What is success?

Can it be achieved in violation of morals and common honesty?

Success is a magic word, but it should also be a high and untarnished word.

Is any man entitled to be called a success who injures others?

Can he be a real winner and disregard his own conscience?

All sophistry aside, can he?

At the time of his debate with Senator Douglas Abraham Lincoln spoke of himself as a failure. Yet he had followed his conscience, and in a few years this very fact made him the most conspicuous success of his age.

Lincoln taught us that "right makes might." By the same token does not right make success?

If the young man came to see that stock gambling is dishonest and injurious to the people did he not achieve actual success in quitting it, even though he abandoned seemingly brilliant prospects?

Success should be grasped with clean hands. Otherwise it will become so smudged and dirty as to lose its luster.

Success is a great thing, but who wants to be a successful crook?

EUBLERS CHILDREN'S SIZE: GIANT LAWMAKERS PROTEST

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—Members of the legislature of critical mind have noted with some distemper the manner in which the new "sanitary" drinking fountains have been installed throughout the statehouse.

The bubblers are placed low, and such giants as Conway and Urquhart are led to wonder if the capitol architects had a day nursery in mind when they planned the legislative thirst-quenchers.

Another kick registered against the device is the irregular flow of water. When the fountains go on a rampage they tend to justify the appellation of "sanitary" for without doubt they conduce to a clean nose.

BILL WILL PROVIDE AN OPTOMETRY BOARD

Measure Provides for Regulation of Optometrists in Manner Similar To Doctors and Dentists.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—Optometry is recognized as a profession in a bill to be introduced in the assembly by Assemblyman Edward Nordman of Polk. The general features of the proposed law are similar to the statute creating the boards of medical examiners and dentistry. People who have practiced optometry two years in the state will be required to register. New applicants will be required to an examination.

A bill similar to the Nordman measure passed the senate two years ago but was lost in the assembly near the close of the session by a close vote. The medical profession offered some opposition to the bill two years ago. It is understood that this profession does not intend to oppose the measure this year.

Under the terms of the bill an optometry board of three members is created to be appointed by the governor from a list of ten names to be submitted to the chief executive by the Wisconsin Optometry society.

The term of appointment is three years and a per diem of $10 is allowed while the members are actively engaged in the duties of the board.

Aside from the registering of the optometrists the board will hold semi-annual examinations and will pass upon the qualifications of other applicants, who are graduates of an optometry course in colleges in other states. An examination and registration fee will be charged, but the expenses of the board shall not exceed the amount of funds collected under the proposed law.

There is a provision of the bill to eliminate "quacks" whose unprofessional acts necessitate the cancellation of their certificate to practice.

It is also understood that a new medical bill will be introduced that will abolish the present law for a medical board and create a new one with more definite and broader powers.

A Milwaukee assemblyman is expected to introduce this measure.

COMMITTEE HEARINGS START THIS WEEK

About One-Third of Bills Introduced in Assembly Have Been Given Places on Their Calendars.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—The first active committee hearings before the legislature will be started this week. About one-third of the bills introduced in the assembly have been noted for hearing. The more important hearings will be held Wednesday and Thursday. Fifty-two bills and seven joint resolutions will be considered by the assembly committees this week. About twenty-five of these proposals will be heard by the judiciary committee.

Hearings will be started Tuesday morning. The committee on elections of the assembly will take up the Clark-O'Day election contest tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Assemblyman O'Day telephoned to the county clerk of Lincoln county Saturday to bring the ballots here to be recounted by the committee. He is co-operating with the committee to save all possible expense in determining the contest. Tomorrow afternoon the committee on education will hold hearings on eleven proposed laws, including the Anderson bill establishing fraternities or other similar organizations in the state educational institutions. Another important measure to be considered and heard by the education committee this week is the Rosa proposal to amend the state constitution so that the educational affairs of the state may be directed by a state board of education. This amendment would wipe out the boards of university and normal regents and the office of the state superintendent of public instruction.

Tomorrow afternoon the committee on taxation will hear arguments on the Larsen bill, which provides for the taxation of mineral rights in Wisconsin. This is the first time that a bill of this character has been introduced in a Wisconsin legislature.

Two other bills, one by Piennig of Tenocho and another by Nordman of Polk, for the exemption of from $1,000 to $1,500 of improvements from taxation will be heard on Tuesday by the taxation committee.

On Thursday the Piennig bill to divorce the saloons from the breweries will be given a hearing by the committee on excise and fees. This measure will attract an array of lobbyists to Madison.

WESTON IS BROUGHT BACK FROM BUFFALO TO ANSWER CHARGES

Arrived in City at Nine O'clock Last Night in Custody of Chief of Police George Appleby.

After once escaping from custody, and for seven weeks eluding the detectives and police officers on his trail, meanwhile giving them new incentives for zealous search, John H. Weston, the former bookkeeper of the Rock River Woolen Mills, who was arrested in Buffalo last Monday, was brought safely to this city last night by Chief of Police George Appleby. He was lodged at the police station during the night and this morning was arraigned before Judge Fifield on the charge of embezzling $35 from his former employers on February 17, 1912. As the offense with which he is charged is one punishable by a state's prison sentence, Weston was not able to enter a plea. He was told that he was entitled to examination to determine whether there was cause to hold him for trial but could waive the examination if he desired. To this suggestion he replied that he wanted to consult with an attorney and his "folks" before deciding what action he would take. On the motion of District Attorney Dunwiddie, Judge Fifield adjourned the examination of Weston until next Monday, February 19. This additional time will be needed to examine the books and papers of the woolen mills some of which are in the Chicago office. The bail of Weston was placed at $1,500. He was not able to furnish bail at once, but was hopeful that friends would provide it for him by tomorrow.

Difficulties of an unexpected nature beset the attempt of Chief of Police Appleby to persuade the New York and Buffalo authorities to deliver up Weston. The chief arrived in Albany at five o'clock Wednesday morning and went to the office of Governor Sulzer as early as possible. Governor Sulzer was at first not disposed to honor the application for requisition papers on the ground that this complaint against Weston was made "on information and belief" and therefore insufficient. The New York law demand that complaints be issued only on the knowledge that an offense has been committed. It was necessary for the chief to have a second audience with the governor before the requisition papers were delivered signed with his name and that of his secretary, Chester C. Platt.

On arriving in Buffalo, Friday morning, another obstacle was encountered in the shape of a dispute over the apportionment of the $100 reward offered for the capture of Weston by the Rock River Woolen Mills. It was found that Weston had been seen in Buffalo by a Mr. Hibbard, a salesman for the Dobbins Soap company of Philadelphia. He had informed an Inquirer hotel detective of that fact but the hotel detective did not see fit to arrest Weston until he had more complete information, and two Pinkerton detectives were directed to keep watch of the suspect after he had communicated with and received directions from the Pinkerton headquarters. The two Pinkerton detectives claimed the whole reward, but the chief insisted that the hotel detective and Mr. Hibbard were entitled to a portion. The Buffalo Pinkerton headquarters upheld the position of Chief Appleby and each of the detectives was given twenty-five dollars. As Mr. Hibbard was out of the city the chief brought his share of the reward back to the donors for disposal. Before the settlement of this dispute the two Pinkerton detectives grabbed the requisition papers but gave them up when settlement was made. Chief Appleby signed a receipt so as to avoid further complications arising. The Buffalo chief of police refused to take a hand in settling the dispute but honor the requisition when it was brought to an end.

Chief of Police Appleby reports that Weston made no attempt to escape while in his custody. The two left Buffalo, Saturday evening, arriving in Chicago at eleven-thirty o'clock yesterday morning. Weston was left at the detective headquarters there until brought to this city last night.

FALLS TWO STORIES: STRIKES UPON HEAD

John F. Hayes Seriously Injured This Morning While Working at New Hayes Apartment Building.

As the result of the breaking of an iron hook which supported a block and tackle used for drawing up building material at the new Hayes apartment house on South High Street, John F. Hayes of 547 South Jackson Street, one of the workmen employed there this morning fell from the rear porch of the third floor to that of the first, striking with great force on his head. He was rendered unconscious by the blow and the two workmen who were assisting him feared that the fall had proved fatal. They made haste however to call Dr. George W. Fifield, and Hayes regained consciousness before his removal to Mercy Hospital. He complained that his back pained him severely.

At the time of the accident, Hayes and the other carpenters were drawing up to the third floor through the open stairway shaft, a bale of floor deadening weighing nearly four hundred pounds. Two of the men were operating the pulley from the first floor and Hayes was on the third floor leaning out over the shaft and pulling downward on the rope when the hook supporting the pulley broke. This intensified the force of his fall and if the lower porch had not been of wood the accident would probably have caused immediate death.

The extent of the injuries to Mr. Hayes can not be determined for several hours. He is in terrible pain and it is feared that he may have suffered a fracture of the spine. As no paralysis has yet developed hope for his recovery is entertained.

AUTO DEALERS VOTE NOT TO HAVE SHOW

Decision is Reached at Meeting of Association at Kemmerer Garage Yesterday.

Failing to see where an auto show would be of benefit to their business interests, a majority of the Janesville automobile dealers voted against an exhibition at the auditorium this year at a meeting of the association held at the Kemmerer garage Sunday afternoon. All the dealers were present with the exception of Alex. Russell and George Ibrag of the Park hotel garage.

Another meeting of the dealers is announced for next Sunday, at which it is understood another effort will be made to come to an agreement in favor of an exhibition. Several dealers are enthusiastic over the matter and are not discouraged by the attitude taken yesterday.

There is an area of high barometer off the Atlantic coast, and a trough of low pressure stretches from the Lower Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico. This combination is causing an inflow of warm oceanic air across the coast and over the Appalachian mountains, with widespread rains in the south, and snow in the northeastern states. The barometer is high in the Northwest and in the Rocky Mountain region, and the temperature is very low on the northern plains. Snow has fallen throughout the West, except in the southern Plateau region and on the south Pacific coast where it has been clear.

AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVES IN FOREIGN CAPITALS MUST SOON GIVE UP POSTS; O'BRIEN AND LEISHMAN MAY REMAIN IN EUROPE

Washington. American ambassadors, ministers and consuls in foreign lands are packing their trunks. Scarcely they are preparing for the fateful fourth of March, when they must send in their resignations to the new president.

The majority of our representatives in foreign capitals enjoy their work. They are rich and live high. Their duties are not arduous. It is a pleasant life and they do not like to give it up.

Among the ambassadors, only two,

John G. A. Leishman at Berlin, and Thomas J. O'Brien at Rome, have been in the diplomatic service for any length of time, and both of them are credited with intentions to make permanent home a abroad. They have learned to like European life.

Mr. Leishman's eldest daughter is connected with half of the old families of the Faubourg St. Germain through her French marriage, while the ambassador's son, "Jack" Leishman, has long been domiciled in Paris. Mrs. Leishman has often expressed her preference for Parisian society, and has maintained a home there while her husband was officially living in Constantinople, Rome and Berlin. It is expected that she and her daughters will immediately open an establishment in their old neighborhood of the Bois de Boulogne near "Jack" Leishman's handsome home.

Mr. O'Brien, now stationed at Rome, has been away from his old home in Michigan so many years, at the head of the legation in Denmark and the embassy in Japan, before going to Rome—and his only daughter, Mrs. Chilton, has in the meantime become the wife of a rising young British diplomat now stationed in Berlin—that he and Mrs. O'Brien are not pleased with the thought of leaving Europe, where they now have most of their intimate ties of friendship. They are rich enough to live where they please, and it is understood they will transfer their household to either Paris or London after March 4.

Ambassador Rockhill, now at Constantinople, will probably live in Washington after he quits the diplomatic service. His wife and daughter are very popular socially at the capitol.

Other ambassadors and ministers, who will become familiar figures again in their native land after March 4 are Henry S. Boutell, minister to Switzerland; Curtis Guild, stationed at St. Petersburg; Larz Anderson, ambassador at Tokyo, and Myron T. Herrick, Uncle Sam's representative at the French capitol.

Possibly Knew What He Meant.

In an address of welcome to a resident magistrate at Cala, Transkei, South Africa, the Kaffir spokesman, the other day thus expressed himself: "We cordially welcome your pluck and goodness in coming among such pusillanimous and unwholesomely ignorant people. We are overjoyed to get such a weak, non-excitable, superabundantly harmonious one as a magistrate."

THANKFUL HE WAS NOT A WOMAN.

The late Lawson Tait, of England, the great woman's doctor, said he never went to bed at night without thanking heaven he was not born a woman. No doctor ever knew better than he what women have to suffer at some times of their lives. It was an American woman long since passed to her reward who introduced a simple combination of roots and herbs called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that has proved wonderfully successful in mitigating suffering and curing diseases of women. It has brought unspeakable relief to thousands of women who suffered from female ills. Advertisement.

ZAPATA SUPPORTED BY WELL EQUIPPED AND DRILLED TROOPS

Story at First Laughed at But Later
Developments Indicate That
There is Truth in Report.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—That Emiliano Zapata has an army of more than 8,000 men well drilled and well provided with arms and ammunition, is a story that caused the capital to smile when it was brought here recently by a man named Martinez, a semi-official employee of the government to Zapata, but which before the end of the month had received far more serious consideration. If the story is true, it is believed here that it will alter very materially the relations of the central government and that of the rebel forces who have spread their wings through all of Mexico, and which has been depicted as a battle cry by thousands who perhaps have never seen him.

Since that day more than a year ago when Francisco I. Madero, not yet president, met Zapata at Cuautla and inaugurating negotiations for peace frustrated the plans of the provisional government to suppress him and his band, the government has from time to time indulged in roundabout efforts to end its disagreements with him. Martinez has played a big part in these negotiations. Recently he brought to the government Zapata's terms for peace and, although they have not been made public, it is known that Zapata does not now insist upon the resignation of Madero, but that federal troops be retired from the State of Morelos and that he be made the military commander of the Seventh Military Zone, whose headquarters is at Cuernavaca. He offers to furnish his own soldiers, guaranteeing the maintenance of peace.

Martinez declares that he is convinced of the truth of the statement that Zapata has an army of 8,000 men, in addition to those numerous bands which have been raiding the length and breadth of the states of Mexico, Guerrero, parts of Puebla, Oaxaca, and even those whose operations in the State of Morelos have gained for them the term "savages." Zapata's army—that over which he has direct control—is according to Martinez, in a region twenty by forty miles in an isolated part of the State of Morelos. There his men have been for months doing little besides drill and prepare for eventualities. The drilling and organization have been done, he says, under the general supervision of Gaudencio de la Llave, a colonel in the regular army who joined the rebellion.

General Joaquin Beltran, who conducted the campaign against General Felix Diaz in Vera Cruz and who later was made the military commander of that district, has been succeeded by General Velasco. General Beltran was ordered to report to Mexico City, where he was left subject to orders from the department of war.

Another change that has caused much speculation and considerable gossip was the relieving of Comodoro Azueta. Azueta was in command of the little fleet in Vera Cruz harbor, and Diaz depended upon him for support, but at the last he joined forces with Beltran to capture the rebellious general.

That the loyalty of the army as a whole is doubted is common talk in clubs, cafes and in almost all public places, and recently the statement was made on the floor of the Lower House by a deputy, formerly an aide of the President, that high officers had been approached by those endeavoring to incite an army uprising. The statement provoked an acrid discussion in which the galleries took an informal though noisy part. One deputy in eulogizing the army, referred to the recapture of Vera Cruz after its occupation by Felix Diaz, and immediately his voice was drowned by voices from the galleries, crying, "Yes, by treason! By using the white flag!" and several other expressions indicative of the popular conception of the means used to accomplish that end.

Always a turbulent lot, the Mexican deputies during the month of January have earned for themselves special distinction as debaters. At almost every session the debate on some measure has resulted in a series of charges and counter charges in which the members not infrequently called each other liars and on numerous occasions the executive has been sharply criticized for his administration of affairs.

One incident that promised serious consequences was the unfolding of the records that tell how the army list has been maintained. Incidental to the discussion of some bill a deputy charged that the army, during the campaign against Orozco, had been augmented by 2,000 prisoners taken from Belem, the big city prison, before the charges against them had been determined by the courts. The deputy, who was the Attorney General at that time, was called upon to corroborate this statement and did so, explaining that the President, in a cabinet meeting, had determined to commute the sentences of those men. This course was regarded as necessary since, notwithstanding the high pay offered soldiers, no man could be found to enlist. The incident resulted in a storm of protest and threats of impeachment of the President.

That prisoners are forced into the army every week is no secret and never denied, but this was the first time Congress had taken official cognizance of the fact.

Almost on a par with the statement of Deputy Luis Cabrera, that Mexico faced civil war for at least three years to come, were declarations made by a number of deputies recently as to the extent of the revolution now in progress. One deputy, speaking on the measure to authorize special elections in states where at the regular time they could be not be held on account of the disturbed conditions, declared that the conditions now were worse, and that in Durango the rebels were in absolute control, almost to the gates of the state capital. He cited other places and conditions which he declared were equally bad. His statements were supported.

GIVE HIM A CHANCE

THE LOCAL RETAILER HAS HIS MONEY INVESTED IN YOUR TOWN. GIVE HIM A CHANCE TO FIGURE ON YOUR TRADE.

Copyrighted 1912, by Edgar Taylor Wheelock.

There is not a local retailer in all this land who does not want to do business. If he did not he would not be in business. There is not a local retailer in the land who can not successfully compete with the mail order and catalogue retailers. He may not know it, but it is a fact, nevertheless.

Not a Charitable Institution.

The catalogue retailers are not in business for their health. When they sell goods they make a profit, except in cases where they advertise "leaders" as baits to pull trade. They invariably practice the methods adopted by proprietors of 5 and 10 cent stores.

Go to any of these stores in the cities and you will find on the 10-cent counters articles that cost more than the price at wholesale. Some of these articles commonly retail at from 20 to 50 cents. On the same counter will be found articles that cost from 2 to 4 cents. The profit on the latter more than makes up the loss on the former.

That is the catalogue retailer's system.

Investigate for Yourself.

Take your catalogue to your local retailer and ask him to make an investigation concerning the goods you want to buy. If he is an up-to-date retailer, he will know what the goods advertised in the catalogue really are, and, if you insist on buying that kind of goods, he will be able to get them for you.

A firm of hardware dealers in a Wisconsin town keeps on its counter the catalogue of the largest Chicago mail order retailer upon which is pasted a notice that they will furnish any article in their line advertised in the catalogue as cheaply as the buyer can procure the article from Chicago. And they keep their word.

They know that the cheap stoves sold by the catalogue house are light weight stoves; that the cheap iron beds, shown in the picture as massive frames with substantial corner posts and cross bars, are light frail castings commonly known as "seconds" that no reputable furniture dealer would keep in stock because he could not sell them to people who were given an opportunity to look at them.

These are facts. It is only on rare occasions that the patron of a catalogue house can be assured of getting the worth of his money.

Can Hold Him Accountable.

On the other hand, the local retailer, if he understands his business, buys his stock from manufacturers and dealers who have reputations at stake and who supply goods of quality to their distributing agents—the retail dealers.

This class of manufacturers and wholesalers will not sell their goods to the catalogue retailers at any price. An instance is known where one of the catalogue houses secured several stoves of standard make in an underground way and advertised them as "leaders" at cut prices. The manufacturers immediately had orders sent in by persons employed by them and bought up at retail every one of their stoves offered.

They did this to preserve their reputation. They did not propose to have their stoves, which were standard, advertised by the side of inferior articles of light weight and cheap construction.

How About Catalogue Paints?

Take also the matter of paints. The catalogue retailers advertise their paints as the best on the market and offer to furnish an impossible guaranty. But they do not ship their paints into states that require a printed copy of the analysis of the contents to be pasted on each package.

Why? Because their paints are not what they are represented to be. Most local merchants know these facts and they can explain them to their customers if given an opportunity. They can, if they understand their business, explain the difference between the quality of their goods and those sold by the catalogue retailers. They should be given a chance to do so.

If they can not meet this demand upon them as business men they are not up-to-date merchants and they should be educated. If the consumers are awake and alive to their own interests they can begin this work of education by demanding the information asked for and the efficient service required.

At least, it is worth a trial.

per cent increase in wages, has been brought within a week to face the demands of the telegraphers, who also demand a revision of their wage scale and shorter hours.

BENEVOLENT BOSS OF HOOSIER SOLONS

Thomas Taggart.

Thomas Taggart, Democratic national committeeman from Indiana, is undisputed boss of the Hoosier legislature at its present session. Taggart is proving a benevolent boss this time, however. He has come out for progressive legislation, and is championing the measures which Woodrow Wilson is working for in New Jersey. It is said that Taggart wants to be senator, and is working hard to get into the good graces of the president-elect, whose assistance he will need when he (Taggart) gets into the senatorial race in 1915.

ORANGE MARKET POOR; FRUIT IS FROSTED

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The orange market is bothering receivers considerably and they are wondering where the low prices are going to end. Most of them fail to see any bright future for citrus fruit for some time. While it is true that prices in all sections are low, it is also true that this is caused largely by the generally poor condition and quality of the fruit. While the California Navel cut juicy, even though touched by frost, the juice is bitter. Florida oranges show a heavy percentage of decay even when shipped under refrigeration, which shows that the fruit was weak when picked and packed.

Porto Rico oranges are in even worse condition. Receipts of Porto Rico this week were the heaviest of the season and the bulk showed 20@25 per cent decay and all of it to be rejected.

Florida receipts continue exceptionally heavy. Growers have considerable fruit left and are keeping the packing houses busy day and night rushing it out.

One thing that is bothering receivers is what action the health authorities are going to take on the frozen California oranges. The Federal Government has made the statement that such oranges are injurious and the sale of them is in violation of the law, consequently they will not permit them to be offered for sale.

The local health officials made the statement that their inspectors are watching all offerings of frozen fruit and will not allow it to be sold.

Letting Go Easily.

PERSEVERANCE we are told is a great virtue. And none of us gain-say this. The fellow who perseveres, who holds on, who sticks, is the fellow who nine times out of ten, wins out. It is said that the Hall of Fame is made up of men who never knew when they were licked. So without doubt, perseverance is a trait that will do good work for us in the battle of life.

But like everything in this world, there is a reverse side to it. And if perseverance is valuable, so also is the ability to let go easily. The art of letting go easily is quite as necessary to happiness as is the art of holding on to success. The fellow who has not persistence in his character does not need to cultivate the art of letting go. This is the reverse side of the matter only for the persistent. As a rule, the fellow who is not persistent lets go too easily. But the fellow who is persevering, who holds on like grim death, needs a little of the heaven of letting go in his make-up, to round out a symmetrical character.

There comes to most of us the time when a cherished plan fails. No amount of perseverance will carry it through to success. Failure is in it. When this time comes we need the ability to let go easily. We need to be able to give up without soreness, without discouragement. We want to be equal to dropping the matter cheerfully, to turning to something else, to forgetting it.

It must be confessed that those of us who are persistent, who are determined to put a cherished project through, no matter what obstacles lie in the way, cannot let go easily. We cannot give up with grace. We feel sore and sour, and grouchy when we cannot have our own way, just as if no other way in the world but ours was right.

And here perhaps is the secret of the art of letting go easily. If we can have the larger vision that can see that other ways than ours are right, and that we should desire the right, no matter where it may lie, then we can let go easily. We will not be so wedded to our own way that it will be pain to give it up. But we will so love the right that it will be joy to possess it. And after all, it will not be so much a letting go as a reaching out and a grasping of the best.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

A RIGHT SENSE OF VALUES.

THE other day I overheard a girl at a counter next me making her choice between a cheap, but pretty collar, and an expensive piece of good lace.

She finally chose the piece of real lace. "I can't possibly afford it," she said to her companion, "but I'll charge it, and I guess it'll come out all right. I simply can't bear things unless they are nice."

"I know it, my dear," said the other girl. "You do have such good taste." Whereat the first girl smiled a smile of evident self-approval, and tucked the piece of lace that she could not possibly afford into her muff with an air of complete satisfaction.

She evidently felt a great pride in that taste of hers which wouldn't let her be content with things that were within her income.

And in that feeling she was typical of a large class of people. I know a woman who, all her life has kept her husband in her home. Her silver must be solid, though his income was decidedly plated; her floors must be hardwood when she should have been content to have them painted. In short, she insisted that everything must be all wool and a yard wide, although her husband's salary was mostly cotton and much nearer eighteen inches than a yard.

She felt that she would degrade herself by admitting anything cheap into her home.

In reality, she would have raised herself, since she would have been doing what every just and square man or woman ought to do—making her tastes conform to her income, no matter how badly it hurt.

I don't deny that to have good taste is a reason for pride. It is good to appreciate the beautiful and the real, and to dislike the cheap and shoddy; and it is good to be able to gratify these tastes.

But it is not good to place these tastes and their gratification above our sense of justice and above our duty to our fellowmen. And that is what any man or woman is doing who lives beyond his means.

After all, when you come to think of it, if all that we believe is true, these material things that we sell our lives for are nothing but chaff which the wind driveth away. Did you ever look around your living room and see all those things that you've worked so hard to own and collected so painstakingly, and suddenly realize how very little they meant? In themselves they are valueless. It is only because we have agreed together to call them valuable that they are so. What are they to be compared with honor and justice and other absolute and eternal things?

Of course it's only once in a while that a corner of the veil lifts like that, but even that brief, occasional vision ought to keep us from completely losing the right sense of values.

straight and are not pulled out of shape. On tablecloths especially, this is quite an item. It also places the wear on the hems. If sheets are put through the wringer selva first the selvages do not curl up.

Things Worth Knowing.
To prevent rice from boiling over, rub a little butter around edge of pan and it will stick.

Use small piece of cloth thoroughly saturated with grease to grease bread and cake tins; also to use on pancake griddles. It saves fingers and uses less grease, it saves the old way.

When you open a bottle of glue or mucilage the first time, grease the cork.

If you have rancid butter, melt it in a clean, new saucepan; put into a slice of bread, toasted light brown, and the bad taste will be absorbed, leaving the butter nice and sweet.

Quick Way to Make Cookies.—Take any cookie recipe and make a dough stiff enough to mold into rather a long loaf. Then with a sharp knife slice from loaf and bake; a much quicker way than cutting with cutter.

For Earache.—Take small piece of cotton batting, put a pinch of black pepper in center, gather up and tie with a thread. Dip cotton in sweet oil and insert in the ear. Gives instant relief.

The Table.

New Shrimp Salad.—This may be made from fresh or canned fish. Marinate and season with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Mix with mayonnaise, and serve on lettuce leaves. Or, make an unsweetened jelly of gelatin and lemon juice, then, while still liquid, wet individual molds and pour a little jelly into the bottom of each. Put in several shrimps and when the jelly begins to set pour on more to cover; then put aside in cold place to harden. When ready to serve, turn out the mold on lettuce leaves, cover with mayonnaise and garnish each with two or three shrimps.

Home-Made Hominy.—Use two tablespoons potato to the kernels of eight ears of corn. Cover with water and boil until hull leaves the kernel, then wash through several waters and cook until done.

Triced Bread.—Slice bread or use stale slices and dip in the following: One egg well beaten, one cup milk and a pinch of salt. Dip bread and fry in hot grease until light brown. Serve with hot maple or other syrup and butter. A quick and palatable breakfast.

Corn Syrup Candy.—Three cups granulated sugar, one-half cup corn syrup, two thirds cup water, whites of two eggs, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup nut meats.

Cook sugar, syrup and water until they harden when dropped into cold water; add salt and beaten whites of eggs. Then stir mixture until it begins to harden, when add nut meats and pour on buttered plates to cool.

The House Fern.
To revive house ferns that are almost dead or not growing well, take them out of the pot and give them other ground.

Take only good, black soil, plant fern down deep, give it plenty of water.

If not large I set it once in two weeks in the bath tub and with a whisk broom I give it a good spraying. But if fern is too large to handle, I lay newspapers all around, spray same way, then remove the damp papers.

Leaves must never be touched with the fingers.

If the plant is treated this way it will become beautiful.

The Kitchen Cabinet

IT IS the fault of all of us till we have duly practiced our minds, to be unreal in our sentiments, and crude in our judgments and be carried off by fancies instead of being at the trouble of acquiring sound knowledge.

WAYS OF SERVING PORK.

During the winter weather one is able to take care of heartier foods and fats which are heat producing. Here are a few recipes which are not so common, but will give a variety.

Breaded Pork Chops.—Roll pork chops in beaten egg and cracker crumbs, and season with salt and pepper. Melt a little suet in a frying pan, lay in the chops and put into the oven to roast.

Ham With Cream Gravy.—Remove the skin from a slice of ham. Season with salt, if needed, and let stand in vinegar for twenty-four hours. Brown it in a little fat, add a part of the vinegar, a sliced onion, ten pepper corns, a carrot, a teaspoonful of capers, a little sugar and three tablespoonsful of sour cream. Cook slowly two hours. Thicken the sauce with another tablespoonful of sour cream.

Pig's Feet.—Scrub the hocks and scrape them, wash thoroughly. Cover with cold water and heat to the boiling point; cook slowly in a fireless cooker four hours. Boil fifteen minutes a cup of vinegar, one small onion, one bay leaf and a few whole cloves. Add this vinegar to the pig's feet. Re-heat and serve.

Pork Tenderloin.—Slit the tenderloin through the center lengthwise, leaving both ends closed. Fill with oysters, season with butter, pepper and salt. Sew up and bake a half hour, or an hour and a half on a caloric cooker, using two radiators.

Refrigerator Furniture.—If wood is too hard to drive a nail without bending, apply bees-wax. Nail then can be driven in to the hardest kind of wood.

When Hanging Out Table-Cloths.—Blankets and quilts, if the hems are folded together and they are pinned on the line by the hems there is less danger of them getting whipped out by the wind; also less work on ironing day, as they hang straight and are not pulled out of shape. On tablecloths especially, this is quite an item. It also places the wear on the hems. If sheets are put through the wringer selva first the selvages do not curl up.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a widow of 25. My husband and I separated two years ago. I have two children. Five months ago I met a man whom I love. He has proposed to me. I have not told him about myself. Is it wrong to be divorced and to marry again? I have put him off. What shall I do? BROWN EYES.

If you are divorced, and he is a good man, tell him the truth about yourself and marry him if he wants you. Your children ought to have a good man to take the place of their father.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 18. I am in love with two girls—one is rich; the other is poor, but she has a fine education and is the best looking. Which shall I decide upon? JIMMIE.

How much money have you, Jimmie? Have you got a steady job? Can you support a wife? Are you willing to settle down and be a good husband and walk the floor nights when the baby is teething? Do you know how to be kind and helpful to a woman, whether she is sick or well? Are you willing to give up all other girls for just one girl, all the rest of your life?

If you're not, my boy you'd better wait a few years before deciding upon any girl. Also, make up your mind that any girl who says she loves you, now, is either awfully silly or she's telling you an awful big lie.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I know two girls who dislike me very much. How can I win their friendship? They laugh at me because I give them such icy looks. (2)—How can I make my hands creamy. I never work and I don't know what is the matter. (3)—I sing at concerts and people say I sing wonders, but I never get applause. What do you think? LOVELY EYES.

The Prospect.

Caller.—Is your mistress engaged tonight?

Maid.—No, sir; but she hopes to be next week.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher Copyright, 1909, by Gustav Meynert, Editor BY WALT MASON

I love the winter with her snow, as down the world she teeters! No flies to swat, no lawns to mow, no battles with mosquitoes!—I blithely carry in the coal, to make the fireside cheery, and read about the long lost pole, and Amundsen and Peary. I gaily take my trusty axe and seize a chair that fits me, and play waltz with a wire, or till my grandam hits me. A man can sit and close his eyes and dream without a sore head; serenely knowing that the flies won't gnaw his nose or forehead. No chiggers will de-vour his limbs or ants bring dire disaster; what wonder that his joyous hymns shake down a lot of plaster? Oh, winter, I could sing your praises in odes too long for printing! I'd not curtail in one year's day! Keep up your merry whirling! Pile up your clouds until the skies assume a dark complexion! Storm, rave and howl, and freeze the flies too dead for resurrection! You'll never hear me rant and carp because you tilt and tounney; I'll just sit here and sing my harp and cheer you on your journey!

(1)—Stop giving the icy looks, and be a little more amiable. (2)—Perhaps a little dishwater would be good for them. Wash the hands in oatmeal water, coldcream them at night and wear gloves. (3)—Maybe you don't sing the right kind of songs for your audiences.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a girl of 17, and five months ago I met a young man of 19. He seemed very attentive to me until about two weeks ago. Although he calls me up occasionally he does not ask to make any engagements. Do you think he is tired of me? How can I win him back? (2)—Occasionally I am alone evenings. Is it proper for me to have boy friends come to see me? How late should they stay? (3)—Am I too young to go to dances?

(4)—Is it proper to wear sleeves above the elbow and low neck? (5)—What do boys think of girls who give them their pictures? (6)—Is it wrong to call up a young man you have never met, although he sent his phone number to me by a friend of mine? BLUEBELL.

(1)—I am afraid he is tired of you my dear. If that's so, you don't want him back, do you? (2)—Never allow boys to visit you when you are alone. Invite some older woman to be with you, if you want the boys to come. (3)—You should have a chaperone.

(4)—If the dress is cut modestly—yes. (5)—They think the girl is "easy." (6)—Yes, indeed. If there is any calling to be done, let him do it. He should first be properly introduced to you.

RHEUMATISM A DISEASE OF NUTRITION.

The number of diseases that can be traced directly to nutritional disorders is being gradually increased, while it is being admitted by leading authorities that defective nutrition is indirectly the cause of nearly all sickness not caused by mechanical injuries. "Rheumatoid arthritis is a disease of nutrition, probably beginning with disturbance of function in the digestive passage," says Dr. H. M. Church, in the Edinburgh Medical Journal. The ideal of modern medicine is prevention, and that is effected by removing the cause. The people must learn how to maintain good nutrition by the proper selection, preparation and ingestion of food, by the use of pure air, water, exercise, sunshine, and right mental states. To indicate how this is to be done, particularly as regards diet, is the purpose of these hints, and the numerous testimonials of readers show that "invaluable good is resulting."

HISTORY OF CHURCH IS A STEADY GROWTH

JANESVILLE'S FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HAS SEEN RAPID PROGRESS.

MANY AT DEDICATION

New House of Worship is Filled Three Times Yesterday for Opening Services—Mrs. Field Reads History.

Persistence and faithfulness on the part of the members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city, accounts for the steady growth which has been made in the past on the third floor of the Phoenix block the reading room was transferred to that place. Another progressive step was taken when the hall formerly occupied by the church home up to the present time, leased, which has continued to be the church home up to the present time.

"In June, 1902 word came from Boston, of the proposed plan to build the Mother Church extension and as this branch wished to give its support to the undertaking, contributions were sent periodically to which was added the amount on hand in the building fund.

"On the completion of that structure in 1906 the church again took up monthly contributions for its own building. Once again these were discontinued in order to share in the construction of the Christian Science Publishing House in Boston.

"In 1907 the present site was purchased. In Jan. 1912 feeling that the time had come to make preparations for building a permanent home a committee was appointed who em-

LOWER TEMPERATURE IS ON THE PROGRAM

Official Indication Denotes Another Cold Wave for Northwestern States During Week.

The pressure distribution over the American continent and the adjacent oceans is such as to indicate that during the coming week temperatures will be near the seasonal average in all parts of the country with well distributed precipitation.

A disturbance that now covers the southwest will move northeastward, crossing the great central valleys Monday or Monday night and the eastern states Tuesday or Wednesday. This disturbance will cause general rains and snows Monday and Tuesday throughout the region between the Mississippi valley and the Atlantic coast.

Another disturbance will appear in the far west about Wednesday, more eastward over the middle west Thursday or Friday and the eastern states near the close of the week. This disturbance will be attended by general precipitation and will in all probability terminate the prolonged period of dry weather in the Pacific coast.

A change to considerably colder weather will overspread the northwestern states about Thursday.

INTERIOR VIEW OF NEW CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH.

thirty years and the outward expression of this endeavor is now seen in the beautiful, new building at the corner of High and Pleasant streets which was formally dedicated Sunday.

Three large congregations, morning, afternoon and evening, were present at the services which consisted of the usual reading lesson and sermon with a brief account of the church's history read by Mrs. James Field, the first reader, as the only additional exercise to mark the dedication. This account of the church's progress is given below:

"It was as long ago as the year 1886 that the light of Christian Science first dawned upon Janesville. First one and then another perceived this light, felt its beneficent influence and was healed. This was the real beginning of the building of the church of which this edifice is the outward expression for without the healing there would be no Christian Science Church and no need of one.

"Services were first held in a little room on south Jackson street. Later a hall was rented in one of the business blocks and since that time services have been held continuously. In 1895 a Sunday school for the children was formed according to instructions sent out by Mrs. Eddy at that time and in April, 1897, a church was organized under the state laws known as First Church of Christ Scientist, Janesville, Wisconsin. Twenty-two persons signed their names as charter members. During this same year a building fund was started.

"The first authorized Christian Science lecture of which this church has given twenty-two was delivered in 1899 in what was known as Columbia hall. The room was filled and since that time the lectures have been given in the Opera House.

"In the year 1900, a reading room open to the public was established in the Hayes block and in 1901 when the church took up its quarters in a room played an architect and work began. Ground was broken the 5th day of August and the laying of the corner stone took place the 17th of September after which work progressed rapidly.

"There has been no solicitation for funds; but the donors have contributed from a sense of deepest gratitude for the healing and redemptive work of Christian Science. The building fund was closed the first week in January when it was announced that the contributions exceeded the amount required. This made it possible to dedicate the church on its completion in conformity with the custom of all Christian Science churches to dedicate when free from debt.

"The names of the children are closely interwoven in the church history and the Sunday School has from time to time manifested its love for the Church by various gifts; the last one being the lighting of this edifice; and this is indicative of the one motive of helpfulness that has animated all who have had to do with the building of the church.

"These events mark the progress of the movement, but the real history of the church is written indelibly on the hearts and lives of its members, for it records the healing of sickness and sin. In the words of Mrs. Eddy in the poem entitled Christ and Christmas: 'As in best Father's hour So in our age, 'Tis the same hand unfolds His power And writes the page.'

"Tis the same hand unfolds His power And writes the page."

Don't Admit Light-Decayed Beer Into Your House

You must drink beer not only made pure, but kept pure.

Purity exceeds all other costs in our brewery. We even filter the air in which Schlitz is cooled. We scald every tub, keg and barrel, every pipe and pump, every time we use it.

Then, instead of putting pure beer in light glass bottles we use Brown Bottles.

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

We began in a hut, sixty years ago. Today our agencies dot the earth. Our output exceeds a million barrels a year. More and more people each year are drinking Schlitz.

Why don't you, too, drink only pure beer—Schlitz in Brown Bottles.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

IDLENESS.

(By Howard J. Ruman.)

IDLENESS is a loose-jointed habit which, when persisted in, leads to laziness and a curt note, informing the addressee that the undersigned will try to wiggle along without him after Saturday night. It is a destructive vice, and will cause a man's ambition to curl up at both ends and run off the track into the nearest pool hall.

Idleness is caused by securing too much rest at the expense of people who have to meet the payroll. It is a very expensive luxury for employers who are not conducting a sanitarium for hobble-footed hitalings. After an employer has enjoyed a feast of idleness and a famine of work during the busy season, as a result of having his endoes anything today that can possibly tire crew inoculated with the hook worm, he will wish that he had been born a Hottentot, with nothing to do but run around in a red blanket under suit and nobody to pay off but the hired girl.

An idler is a procrastinator, and a procrastinator is a person who never does anything today that can possibly be put off until the week after next. There are a great many excuses for idleness, the most common of which is a tired feeling in the soles of the feet. There are a great many people in this world whose underpinning has become so exhausted that they can't go down to the creamery for a pail of buttermilk without sinking down on a dry goods box and resting their feet with one hand while discussing the tariff with the other.

Idleness in the home is a great disappointment to young brides who didn't know what they were getting at the time they signed up. Every year thousands of young men get married who never do any work except at meal time, after which they retire from active business pursuits and kick about the high cost of living. An idle husband, who calls it a day's work to change his necktie can put love's young dream on the hummer quicker than any other affliction. Idleness is a great luxury, which vies with the electric toaster and the limousine foot-warmer, but it is fatal to people who have to work for a living.

STOMACH BAD? BELCHING GAS AND SOUR FOOD? WANT TO FEEL FINE?

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into subnormal lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

At the first sight of dawn Hamlin was sent down the line to arouse them. Overcoats were taken off and strapped to the saddles, carbines loaded and slung, pistols examined and loosened in their holsters, saddles reined in, and curb chains carefully looked after. This was the work of but a few moments, the half-frozen soldiers moving with an eagerness that sent the hot blood coursing fiercely through numb limbs. To the whispered command to mount, running from lip to lip along the line, the men sprang joyously into their saddles, their quickened ears and eager eyes ready for the signal.

Slowly, at a walk, Custer led them forward toward the crest of the hill, where the Osage guide watched through the spectral light of dawn the doomed village beneath. To the uplift of a hand the column halted, and Custer and his bugler went forward. A step behind crouched the Sergeant, grasping the reins of three horses, while a little to the right, beyond the sweep of the coming charge, waited the regimental band.

Peering over the crest, the leader saw through the dim haze, scarcely five hundred yards distant, dotting the north bank of the Washita for more than a quarter of a mile, the Indian village. There was about it scarcely a sign of human life. From the top of two or three of the tepees light wreaths of smoke floated languidly out on the wintry air, and beyond the pony herd was restlessly moving. Even as he gazed, half convinced that the Indians had been warned, the village deserted, the sharp report of a rifle rang out in the distance.

Hamlin saw the General spring upright, his lips uttering the sharp command, "Sound the charge!" Even while the piercing blare of the bugle cut the frosty air, there was a jingle of steel as the troopers behind spurred forward. Almost at the instant the three dismounted men were in saddle, Custer waved his hand at the band, shouted "Play!" and to the rollicking air of "Garry Owen" the eager column of horsemen broke into a mad gallop, and with ringing cheers and mighty rush, swept over the ridge straight down into the startled village. To Hamlin, at Custer's side, reins in his teeth, a revolver in either hand, what followed was scarcely a memory. It remained afterward as a blurred, indistinct picture of action, changing so rapidly as to leave no definite outlines. He heard the answering call of three bugles; the deafening thud of horses' hoofs; the converging cheers of excited troopers; the mingling ring of revolver shots; a sharp order clearing the turmoil; the guttural yell of a stricken horse; the guttural yells of Indians leaping from their tepees into the open. Then he was in the heart of the village, firing with both hands; before him, about him, half-naked savages fighting desperately, striking at him with knives, bring from the shelter of tepees, springing at him with naked hands in a fierce effort to drag him from the saddle. It was all confusion, chaos, a babble of noise, his eyes blinded by glint of steel and glare of fire. The impetus of their rush carried them irresistibly forward; over and through tents they rode, across the bodies of living and dead; men reeled and fell from saddles; riderless horses swept on unguided; revolvers emptied were flung aside, and hands closed hard on sabre hilts. Foot by foot, yard by yard, they drove the wedge of their charge, until they swept through the fringe of tepees, out into the stampeded pony herd.

The bugle rang again, and they turned, facing back, and charged once more, no longer in close formation, but every trooper fighting as he could. Complete as the surprise had been, the men of the Seventh realized now the odds against them, the desperate nature of the fight. Out from the sheltering tepees poured a flood of warriors, rifles in hand they fought savagely. The screams of women and children, the howling, and baying of low. Suddenly, crashing through the very Indian lines, came a four-wheeled wagon. The quartermaster was on the box, driving recklessly. Only Hamlin and a dozen other men were still in saddle. Without orders they dashed forward, spurring maddened horses into the ranks of the Indians, hurling them left and right, firing into infuriated red faces, and slashing about with dripping sabres. Into the lane thus formed sprang the tortured mules, sweeping on with their precious load of ammunition. Behind closed in the squad of rescuers, struggling for their lives amid a horde of savages. Then, with one wild shout, the dismounted troopers leaped to the rescue, hurling back the disorganized Indian mass, and dragging their comrades from the rout. It was hand to hand, clubbed carbine against knife and spear, a fierce, breathless struggle. Behind eager hands ripped open the ammunition cases; cartridges were jammed into empty guns, and a second line of fighting men leaped forward, their front tipped with fire.

Dragged from his horse at the first fierce shock, his revolver empty, his broken saber a jagged piece of steel, Hamlin hacked his way through the first line of warriors, and found refuge behind a dead horse. Here, with two others, he made a stand, gripping a carbine. It was all the work of a moment. About him were skurrying figures, infuriated faces, threatening weapons, yells of agony, cries of rage. The three fought like fends, standing back to back, and striking blindly at leaping bodies and clutching hands. Out of the mist, the mad confusion of breathless combat, one face alone seemed to confront the Sergeant. At first it was a delirium; then it became a reality. He saw the shaggy white face of a buffalo coat, the gleam of a white face. All else vanished in a fierce desire to kill. He leaped forward, crazed with sudden hate, hurled aside the naked bodies in the path, and sent his whirling carbine stock crashing at Dupont. Even as it struck he fell, clutching by gripping hands, and over all rang out the cheer of the charging troopers. Hamlin staggered to his knees, spent and breathless, and smiled grimly down at the dead white man in that ring of red.

It was over, yet that little body of troopers dared not remain. About them still, although demoralized and defeated, circled an overwhelming mass of savages capable of crushing them to death, when they again rallied and consolidated. Custer did the only thing possible. Turning loose the pony herd, gathering his captives close, he swung his compact command into marching column. Before the scattered tribes could rally for a second attack, with flankers out, and skirmishers in advance, the cavalrymen rode straight down the valley toward the retreating hostiles. It was a bold and desperate move, the commander's object being to impress upon the Indian chiefs the thought of his utter fearlessness, and to create the impression that the Seventh would never dare such a thing if they did not have a larger force behind. With flags unfurled, and the band playing, the troopers swept on. The very mad audacity of the movement struck terror into the hearts of the warriors, and they broke and fled. As darkness fell the survivors of the Seventh rode alone, amid the silent desolation of the plains.

Halt! A moment for rest under shelter of the river bank, Custer hastily wrote his report and sent for Hamlin. The latter approached and stood motionless in the red glare of the single camp-fire. The impetuous commander glanced up inquiringly.

"Sergeant, I must send a messenger to Camp Supply. Are you fit to go?" "As much as anyone, General Custer," was the quiet response. "I have no wounds of consequence."

"Very well. Take the fastest horse in the command, and an Osage guide. You know the country, but he will be of assistance. I have written a very brief report; you are to tell Sheridan personally the entire story. We shall rest here two hours, and then proceed slowly along the trail. I anticipate no further serious fighting. You will depart at once."

"Very well, sir," the Sergeant saluted, and turned away, halting an instant to ask: "You have reported the losses, I presume?"

"Yes, the dead and wounded. There are some missing, who may yet come in. Major Elliott and fourteen others are still unaccounted for." He paused. "By the way, Sergeant, while you are with Sheridan, explain to him who you are—he may have news for you. Good night, and good luck."

He stood up and held out his hand. In surprise, his eyes suddenly filling with tears, Hamlin felt the grip of his fingers. Then he turned, unable to articulate a sentence, and strode away into the night.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

At Camp Supply.

There are yet living in that great Southwest those who will retain the story of Hamlin's ride from the back of the Washita to Camp Supply. It remains one of the epics of the plains, one of the proud traditions of the army. To the man himself those hours of danger, struggle and weariness, were more a dream than a reality. He passed through them almost unconsciously, a soldier performing his duty in utter forgetfulness of self, moved by the discipline of years of service, by the importance of his mission, and by memory of Molly McDonald. Love and duty held him reeling in the saddle, brought him safely to the journey's end.

SHE LOST HER HAIR.

But she found it again. That is the good part of the story. It cost her a lot of pride to lose it, and just a dollar to find it. You see, the dollar is the price of a bottle of Hall's Hair Restorer. No coloring of the hair. First of all, she talked it over with her doctor. This gave her confidence to go ahead.

Let the details pass unwritten. Beneath the darkening skies of early evening, the Sergeant and the Osage guide rode forth into the peril and mystery of the shrouded desert. Beyond the outpost picket, moving as silently as two specters, they found at last a coulee leading upward from the valley to the plains above. To their left the Indian fires swept in half circles, and between were the dark outlines of savage foes. From rock to rock echoed guttural voices, but, foot by foot, unmoted by the keen eyes, the two crept steadily on through the midnight of that sheltering ravine, dismounted, hands clasping the nostrils of their ponies, feeling through the darkness for each step, halting breathless at every crackle of a twig, every crunch of snow under foot. Again and again they paused, silent, motionless, as some apparition of savagery outlined itself between them and the sky, yet slowly, steadily, every instinct of the plains exercised, they passed unseen.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

BISCUITS

It was their first day at house-keeping. The pictures were all up and carpers were all down. She knew how to bake biscuits. But that was all, for she had only spent two years at a cooking school. "Oh, good!" she cried. "I'll give Harold a surprise. We'll have a biscuit supper."

Harold came home. He kissed her in the vestibule, the hall, the apt-room and so on out into the dining-room. "First course, biscuits," she twittered, as they sat down to dinner. Harold, devouring her with his eyes, devoured the biscuits with his teeth and avidity.

"Second course, biscuits," she chirped. "How novel!" exclaimed Harold, and devoured seven more.

The third course was biscuits, and as for the fourth, biscuits. It was a four-course dinner and Harold did justice to each course. For dessert there were biscuits.

It was a double funeral and all the papers mentioned the handsome floral tributes.

No Answer.

"Who giveth this woman away?" asked the minister who was officiating at the fourth wedding of the fair divorcee. But her three former husbands sitting in the rear pew kept silent.

DINNER STORIES

"I'd like to make you my wife," said the practical young man; "but they tell me you can't keep house." "Don't you believe all they tell you, rejoined the girl in the case. An eager hand was instantly uplifted.

"Well, Willie, what do you say?" "Please, sir, the hospital,"—Weekly Telegraph.

Never! "Poets," bubbled the dreamy eyed young versemonger, "are born, sir, and not made." "Great Jehosaphat!" exclaimed the long suffering editor in amazement, "and did you suppose any one would want the credit of making 'em?"

"You get the house and put it in my name, and I'll prove to you that I can keep it."

After the capture of Richmond in the "late unpleasantness," a party of English tourists was in that city chartered by an old carter. "What is that building?" said one of the gentlemen to him, pointing in a certain direction. "Dat's a 'bacco warehouse," said the old man.

"And what is that one?" pointing to another. "Dat's a 'bacco warehouse, too." And then looking in the direction of a high hill, Church hill, as it is called in Richmond, the touring party spied a church at the top. "And what is that building?" Is that a tobacco warehouse also. "Oh, no, sir. Dat's de church whar Patrick Henry made de speech, 'Give me liberty or give me death,' and for Gawd, dey done give him both."

Elsie: "Clara's got a tongue like a motor."

Jane: "Like a motor. How's that?" Elsie: "She's always running people down."

George S. Marshall was elected as a reform mayor of Columbus and did a lot of reforming before he was defeated for reelection. One of the reforms was the establishment of a garbage-disposal plant. This threw out of employment a lot of 'darkies' who had formerly done a general scavenger business with ramshackle old wagons and ramshackle old horses.

One of these darkies, on the way to the polls to vote against the mayor, was asked why he opposed Marshall. "Why am I gwine to vote agin dat man? Why dat lowdown rascal done took th' garbage right outen my mouth!"

In a small South Carolina town that was "finished" before the war, two men were playing checkers in the back of a store. A traveling man who was making his first trip to the town was watching the game, and, not being acquainted with the business methods of the citizens, he called the attention of the owner of the store to some customers who had just entered the front door. "Sh! Sh!" answered the storekeeper, making another move on the checker board. "Keep perfectly quiet and they'll go out."

The school master wanted to know whether the boys had an understanding of the functions of a British consulate. "Supposing," he began, framing his question in the likeliest way to arouse the interest of his hearers, "supposing some one took

OLIVE OIL.

Under the Pure Food Law all oil made from olives is pure olive oil, yet there is as much difference in olive oil as there is in butter.

Cheap olive oil is made from olives that through cause of decay, insects or storms fall to the ground. Sound, healthy olives stay on the trees until ripe like our apples. They are then gathered, the oil pressed without heat. This is virgin olive oil. The second pressing is obtained with steam and hot water, which is known as fine table oil. The rich flavor and medicinal properties are found only in the virgin oil which is of a greenish-yellow color. It is very nutritious. Used in nervous diseases is a mild laxative; has a great reputation as a remedy for stones in the bladder; and is a skin food and complexion beautifier through its action on the liver. The supply of this virgin oil is always limited. It is quickly bought up for medicinal purposes and found only in drug stores. Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, personally tests our olive oil. You are therefore positive of obtaining the true virgin oil imported direct from Southern France. We sell it at 40c one-half pint, 75c a full pint bottle. Get it at our store. The Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee & River streets. The Drug Store that makes a specialty of Drugs.
